CALL FOR PAPERS

International Conference

Teaching, Reception and Assessment of Romanian as a Foreign Language: Dynamics and Perspectives

6th Edition | 22–24 July 2026

Faculty of Arts (Filozofska fakulteta), University of Ljubljana, Slovenia
(Hybrid format: on-site and online)

The Romanian Language, Culture and Civilization Collective, Department of Philology, Faculty of Letters and Sciences, Petroleum–Gas University of Ploiești, in partnership with the Faculty of Arts, University of Ljubljana, and the Romanian Language Institute, invites researchers, university professors, and practitioners to submit paper proposals for the 6th International Conference Teaching, Reception and Assessment of Romanian as a Foreign Language.

Over the past two decades, Romanian as a Foreign Language (RFL) has developed into a dynamic and interdisciplinary field, shaped by international academic dialogue, increased learner mobility, and the diversification of educational contexts. The interaction between research and pedagogical practice has led to innovative approaches to teaching, learning, and assessing Romanian in university, institutional, community, and digital environments.

The theme of this edition, Dynamics and Perspectives, aims to foreground current transformations in the field of RFL, emerging didactic approaches, and new perspectives on linguistic competence development, reception, and assessment in multilingual and multicultural contexts.

Conference objectives

The conference intends to:

- examine the dynamics of teaching, reception, and assessment of Romanian as a foreign language;
- disseminate recent research findings in RFL and related fields (language acquisition, foreign language didactics, plurilingualism, mediation);
- promote the exchange of good practices and critical reflection on emerging pedagogical perspectives;
- encourage academic cooperation and the development of joint national and international projects.

Topics of interest

Paper proposals may address, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- Written and oral production in Romanian as a foreign language
- Phonetics, vocabulary and grammatical structures in RFL teaching
- Reception of written and oral texts
- Plurilingualism, pluriculturalism and linguistic mediation
- Assessment of competences in Romanian as a foreign language
- Didactic approaches to teaching languages for specific purposes
- Romanian culture and civilisation in educational contexts
- The dynamics of teaching Romanian as a foreign language
- Foreign language didactics: current perspectives

Target audience

The conference is dedicated to /intended for university professors, researchers, and doctoral candidates interested in Romanian as a foreign language and related areas of study.

Submission and participation details

- Conference language: Romanian
- Presentation length: 15 minutes
- Format: Online via Zoom (22 June) and on-site (23 and 24 July)

Registration:
The registration form (available at: https://www.ff.uni-lj.si/en/teaching-reception-and-assessment-romanian-foreign-language-dynamics-and-perspectives-conference) must be completed and submitted by 15 June 2026.

Participation fee: 50 EUR per participant.

Payment of the participation fee is required by 20 June 2026.

Publication

A selection of the presented papers will be published in Vestnik za tuje jezike. Journal for Foreign Languages (https://journals.uni-lj.si/Vestnik) and/or in a conference volume published by the Faculty of Arts Publishing House, University of Ljubljana.